Call for applications – 1 (one) vacancy

RESEARCH STUDENTSHIP

The Centre for Social Studies (CES) – Associate Laboratory - University of Coimbra (Portugal), opens a call for applications for 1 research studentship (CES/25/2025-BI-RuralDecol) in the project “Rural Decolonization: The Portuguese Revolution and the Liberation of Villagization Camps in Angola, Mozambique, and Guinea-Bissau, 1974-75 [Descolonização Rural: A Revolução Portuguesa e a Libertação dos Campos de Aldeamento em Angola, Moçambique, e Guiné-Bissau, 1974-75]”, reference 2023.10619.25ABR, funded by The National Agency for Science and Technology (FCT), and coordinated by Tiago Castela.

CES provides a stimulating intellectual environment in the domain of the social sciences and the humanities, including research on architecture and urbanism. The project is part of the interdisciplinary research line (Semi)peripheral Capitalism: Crises and Alternatives, that brings together research on the main socio-economic transformations of capitalist societies over the last half century, including architectural and urbanistic changes, on the position of vulnerability of peripheral and semi-peripheral spaces at various scales, and on the unequal impacts that crises trigger.

a. Project Description:

RuralDecol - Rural Decolonization: The Portuguese Revolution and the Liberation of Villagization Camps in Angola, Mozambique, and Guinea-Bissau, 1974-75

RuralDecol aims at contributing to an understanding of the lived experience of decolonization in rural Angola, Mozambique, and Guinea-Bissau in the period between the military coup of April 25 in Portugal and the political independence of the three countries in 1974 and 1975. In particular, RuralDecol focuses on the spatial experience of liberation of the 2 million agriculturalists that lived under conditions of military villagization in the three countries. Although research in architectural history and proximate fields has started addressing the neglected history of wartime villagization camps after 1961, very little is known about the moment of liberation, and how 2 million Guineans, Angolans, and Mozambicans started transforming their own lives and built environments as the Portuguese soldiers and colonial administrators left for Europe. RuralDecol will foreground interviews with retired military in Portugal, as well as with elders in rural Africa.

Duration of project implementation: 18 months, starting September 16, 2024.

b. Scientific field:

Architecture and Urbanism
